About Wendy:

Wendy Robinson loves to entertain and is well known for her impromptu parties. She plans them for no other reason than to celebrate family and life’s precious milestones.

Details come naturally to her. She has spent more than 23 years in corporate America, as an accounting and finance business analyst. During those years, her job duties involved analyzing a company’s finance team and turning their accounting and finance staff into an efficient and functioning team. Those years also fine tuned her knack for leadership and organization...a necessary skill in coordinating all of the logistics of a wedding or event.

After successfully running a wedding planning business for 4 years, Wendy now uses the very principles she learned in corporate America, and in the wedding industry to teach others how to successfully start a wedding planning business.

Wendy is the founder of Sacred Moment Weddings, a planning business that concentrates on giving her clients delightful food choices, music that delights and moves a crowd and wedding décor with a dazzling and inviting atmosphere. These are the three foundational elements she uses for planning her clients wedding day.

She is also the founder of Aspire to Plan, a coaching and workshop concept created to empower and develop wedding planners into wedding industry leaders. She feels there is a need for more one to one coaching for aspiring wedding planners in order to promote more professionalism in the industry.
